

THE DREADED INCIDENT

ENVERIAN DEVELOPER PLAYS KEY ROLE IN CLIENT CRISIS

“Enverian are delighted to have been able to help a client in such a critical area of their business. Health and Safety is the most important area for any business and our solution has shown it can play a key role in meeting the needs of an inspection from the authorities. Being able to access business critical information in one central solution is the essence of why we developed Enverian Developer.”

COLIN ROGAN, CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, ENVERIAN

THE CLIENT

- One version of the truth

BACKGROUND

Our client is an experienced Energy Developer having built many large and complex wind farms in some of the most remote parts of the UK. A track record that stood out amongst their peers.

Recently, a Safety incident on one of their smaller wind farm projects had the potential to shut down the whole business but for the benefits of Enverian Developer.

The incident involved an onsite accident with a third party contractor where an equipment failure caused injury to a staff member. This triggered an investigation from the local Health and Safety body. The investigation whilst initially localised to that wind farm, suddenly took a turn and the company was required to demonstrate compliance across all projects.

As a body, the Health and Safety authority now needed to be satisfied that the company not only kept a clear record of Safety Standards, but needed to be able to demonstrate compliance for all sites.

The Client reached out to Enverian as a trusted supplier to ask for help. Response time was now critical. Enverian Developer was a solution that the Project team had been using for some time. Whilst all projects had been tracked in the solution no one envisaged the request for information to come from this area. The Enverian team quickly reacted and within minutes was able to provide details for the whole portfolio that demonstrated not only that all sites were compliant, but also brought process traceability and copies of all certificates. The report also showed who reviewed the certificates and when they were updated for the business.

Enverian Developer brings together many sources of information from across the organisation. Enverian played a critical role in meeting the needs of our client in providing the key information in a timely and effective manner.
